Planning for the Future – Update on the Consent Process for Work to Historic Buildings

T3/12 Technical Afternoon

29 May 2012

Time: 13.15 –17.15

Venue: Toynbee Hall, 28 Commercial Street,
London, E1 6LS

Fee: £50

This technical afternoon is likely to meet CPD requirements for those professionally involved in historic buildings; including architects, surveyors, engineers, planners, builders and contractors.

Understanding consent regimes is vital for all who work with historic buildings. However, the range of consent types involved - listed building, conservation area, scheduled monument consent, as well as faculty jurisdiction - can seem complex and confusing.

Over the past year, change has complicated this picture further with the introduction of Planning Policy Statement 5, the Localism Act, publication of a draft National Planning Policy Framework and the announcement of other intended reforms by central government.

Examples of topics covered during this event include:

- designation and consent process;
- concept of 'significance' underlying listed building and conservation area consent regimes;
- changes that may be anticipated in the coming period.
