LIME COURSES FOR BUILDING CONTRACTORS

Roughcasts and other External Lime Renders One Day Practical Course

Cost: £95

Nr. Didcot, Oxfordshire
 Saturday 7th June 2008

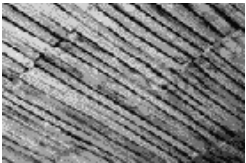

(with an option on Sat 14th June in case of bad weather)

A one-day course for modern (gypsum and cement) plasterers, providing an introduction to roughcasting and other external lime rendering. The course covers the use of both lime putty and hydraulic lime.

The day will start with a short, informal lecture, looking at why and when we want to use lime renders, and roughcasts specifically. The rest of the day is given over to long practical sessions. Delegates will learn how to mix and apply the materials and will get lots of hands-on time to get to grips with the skills and knowledge required.

Roughcasting can be messy work, so delegates will need to bring protective working clothes, and a basic set of tools. The practice work is done on real walls rather than demonstration frames which makes the practical sessions entirely realistic, and will highlight some of the real-life issues that crop up outside of the classroom environment.

All materials are provided. The cost of the course includes lunch and all refreshments.
